The 5th Annual Yadudu Foundation Workshop on Liver Disease has offered a free Hepatitis B virus (liver disease) test to scores of people in order to sensitize them to take preventive care as part of the foundation's magnanimous gesture.

The Management of Yadudu Foundation in collaboration with the Aminu Kano Teaching Hospital organized the 5th Workshop on Saturday 25th May, 2013 at the Aminu Kano Centre for Democratic Research and Training.

The Guest Speaker at the occasion, Dr. M. Alkali Dambam, who is also the Chief Medical Director of Abubakar Tafawa Balewa University Teaching Hospital, Bauchi said 100 different diseases of liver can infect an individual due to some factors like genetics, nutrition and toxins, and its symptoms are excessive tiredness, lack of drive, dark urine, stomach swells and occasional itching. He pointed out that up to 50% of individuals with the disease have no such symptoms.

Dr. Dambam advised people for good nutrition as a way of supporting normal liver function.

While explaining that acute and chronic viral constitute 12% admission in Africa, the guest speaker advised government at all levels and NGOs to continue to create awareness and support the patients with liver disease.

Earlier in his speech, the CMD of AKTH, Professor Aminu Zakari Mohammed, said liver disease does not have any symptom at the child stage, but after a person has grown up, it manifests and kills instantly. He expressed the AKTH's readiness to continue to assist patients with hepatitis B virus and emphasized the need for people to go for proper check-ups.

Chairman of the Yadudu Foundation and father of the late Captain Isma'il Yadudu, Professor Auwalu Hamisu Yadudu, admitted that the idea behind the activities of the foundation was pre-conceived by the late captain, who prior to his demise proposed certain precautions for people against the virus and those who were already infected.

Prof. Yadudu further explained that the deceased was also fond of assisting Islamic schools. "That is why the foundation supports Islamic schools and built boreholes in order to immortalize him". He added that the foundation would in the near future come up with something new that will impact positively on the society.

Chairman of the occasion, Dr. M. M. Borodo, said the foundation and the AKTH organized the workshop to the wider society to provide unique service and sensitize the people on the important prevailing condition.

Dr. Borodo noted that the 25th May, 2013 coincided with the World Hepatitis Day, as such people should make maximum use of the day to take appropriate medical check-up in order to prevent the infection of the virus.

The Special Guest of Honour and the Commissioner for Health, Kano State, Dr. Abubakar Labaran Yusuf, said journalists have crucial role to play in educating Nigerians about health issues.

The theme of the workshop was: Liver in Health and Disease.
