

Presidential Visitation Panel Interacts with Congregation Members

By Adamu Garba

The Presidential Visitation Panel sent to Bayero University, Kano, led by Professor Femi Otubanjo held an interactive session with members of the Congregation on Tuesday, May 4, 2021 for their input during an Emergency Congregation Meeting.

The Emergency Congregation meeting was arranged to discuss issues concerning the University's administration and to seek input from members of the University community to facilitate its assignment with a view to giving contributions and/or suggestions on how to improve University system.

Speaking at the Congregation, the Chairman of the Panel, Professor Otubanjo said they visited the University to assess its activities from 2011 to 2016 and 2016 to 2020.

Professor Otubanjo further stated that the Panel was not there to make an investigation or to with hunt but rather a feedback mechanism constituted by the Federal Government in order to know the strength and weaknesses of Nigerian universities.

He urged members of the University Community to make individual or collective submissions of memorandum on any matter beneficial to the University to the Committee.

While introducing members of the Panel, the Chairman of the Congregation and Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas said the University received Visitation Panel for the first time in the last ten years. He assured the visitors of University's support and cooperation in ensuring that they perform their duties successfully.

Members of the Congregation brainstormed on matters contained in the terms of reference provided by the Panel which include among others, matters relating to security, funding of the university system, accreditation, administration, admission and IPPIS.

The Panel further requested members of the University community to submit their memoranda in writing and make reference to the terms of reference provided in order to aid their assignment.

CDA Industry Lecture Series: Regenerative Agriculture Key to Sustainable Development

By Nura Garba

The global attention has now been shifted to regenerative agriculture and the system is a veritable tool for sustainable agricultural development. This was a submission made by Jason Hayward Jones, the Chief Executive Officer of RegenFarm, UK, during a one-day CDA-Industry Lecture Series held on Tuesday, 4th May, 2021.

According to him, regenerative agriculture is a system of farming that increases biodiversity, enriches soils, improves watersheds and enhances ecosystem services. It also increases yields, resilience to climate change and vitality for farming and ranching services.

Jason Jones, in his presentation, argued that regenerative agriculture is the best system approach to Nigeria. He said the system which is productive, profitable and more resilient to climate change would turn the fortune of dryland farmers and afford them the opportunity to produce high quality food.

According to him, farmers can use the data to redesign what they are doing, saying that the system is being adopted all over the world. He said the Nigerian farmers need to be oriented with the new technology because it would benefit them immensely.

“The good news is that multi-national companies are taking supply from Africa. Therefore, small-holder farmers can take advantage of the new technology to take their farming to the next level. This will bridge the barrier of market challenges,” he said.

Earlier in his remarks, the Director, Centre for Dryland Agriculture (CDA), Professor Jibrin

Jason Jones (middle) presenting his lecture and being flanked by Director CDA, Prof. Jibrin M. Jibrin (right) and Dr. M. Badamasi

Mohammed Jibrin, said the idea of the lecture series is to connect the faculty and students with what is required in the industry. He said the series was designed to exchange ideas with the industries in order to identify their research and training requirements.

The lecture topic was titled: RegenAg and Carbon Trading: New Frontier for Nigerian Agribusiness Space.

CGS Commemorates World Earth Day ... Launches Education for Sustainable Development Youth Hub

By Fausat A. Opayemi

Bayero University will not rest on its oars in its determined efforts to provide environment conducive for teaching and learning to thrive, by maintaining a clean environment as well as landscaping across centers, faculties and departments.

The Vice Chancellor, Professor Sagir Adamu Abbas reiterated this in his keynote address at the 2021 World Earth Day (WED) organized by the Centre for Gender Studies (CGS) on Thursday 22nd April, 2021 at the Dangote Business School. The theme of this year's event is “Restore the Earth”

Professor Abbas, who was represented by the Director, Public affairs, Malam Ahmad Shehu, commended the Centre for organizing a series of activities to mark the global World Earth Day, which is meant to create awareness about global warming and its devastating consequences on human lives.

Professor Abbas expressed happiness on how much is being done by CGS to engage the youth by building their capacities and exposing them to opportunities through the Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) programme.

Mallam Aliyu Ahmad Nuhu, Manager, Kano State Botanical Garden, who made the first presentation titled “Saving the Earth for the Future and Present Generation,” said environmental sustainability development is about meeting the needs of today, which is live and let live by not depleting the resources and existence of the future generation, through sustainable building that produces less emission and also creating awareness on acts that affect the Earth negatively.

He said the theme of this year's celebration, “Restore the Earth” is apt because the earth is already messed up and to restore it, there is the need for natural processes such as, green technology, symbiotic relationship between living and nonliving things and putting an end to plastic pollution, among others.'

The second presentation by Dr. Sani Lawal Malumfashi, from the Department of Sociology titled: “Influence of Social and Cultural Context on the Environment. The Need for Reorientation,” saw human beings as having complex brains that are capable of exploiting and manipulating the environment through the provision of food, shelter, economic activities, among others. He said it was estimated that 2.7 million die annually due to pollution related illnesses. He said cultural and social forces impact negatively on the environment and the environment was now striking back through flooding, climate change, diseases, and instability in the world, among others. He said human relationship with the environment must be reciprocal.

Dr. Bello Ibrahim, Deputy Director, Training, AKCDS, Mambayya House, in his presentation titled “Youths as Activists and Change Makers for Environment Sustainability,” opined that youth should engage in activities that will bring change for environmental sustainability, which will in turn make the environment resilient to negative impacts. He said youth could actively sustain the environment by organizing themselves and providing actions that can sustain the environment by influencing government policies and massive awareness through community sensitization.

The Vice Chancellor, Professor Abbas, who did the formal launching of the Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) Youth Hub, said it would serve the University and humanity at large.

Earlier, the Director, Centre for Gender Studies, Professor Hassana Sani Darma, in her remarks, welcomed all to the occasion. She said the Centre had joined the world to celebrate Earth Day to raise awareness on the impacts of man on his environment and its consequences. She said the celebration was meant to draw attention on how to improve environmental health and livelihood.

The Vice Chancellor Professor Abbas and other dignitaries participated in the tree planting exercise as part of the activities to celebrate the Earth Day.

organized by the BUK Publicity Committee, Students Representative Assembly (SUG) in collaboration with Centre for Gender Studies (CGS) and Association of Female Congregation Members (AFECOMS), on Saturday, 26th April, 2021, at the Convocation Arena.

Professor Hassana Darma said there was a growing concern about Gender Based Violence because studies had shown that children growing up with violence are more likely to become survivors themselves and perpetrators of violence in future.

She said Gender Based Violence (GBV) and violence against women and girls (VAWG) had become a global pandemic that affects 1 in 3 women in their life time.

Dr. Jibril D. Jibril Takes Over as Director, BUK Consultancy Unit

By Aisha Hassan

Bayero University Consultancy Unit witnessed a change of directorship on Wednesday, 5th May 2021. The unit which is situated at the old campus of the university adjacent to the school of Pharmaceutical sciences is now a permanent site for the consultancy unit.

The outgoing Director Professor Mukhtar Halliru of Business Administration Department, having successfully completed his tenure, handed over the affairs of the consultancy unit to the new incoming Director, Dr. Jibril Danazumi Jibril of Department of Estate Management.

Members of staff at the consultancy unit gave the new Director a warm welcome and wished him success in

Dr. Tukur Muhammad Ali, a Consultant Clinical Psychologist, AKTH, in his presentation, said that Gender Based Violence is a violence that is directed at an individual based on their sex, identity and gender, that can be physical, sexual, verbal, emotional or derogatory to provoke anger.

He said 70% of rape is motivated by alcohol and that 42% of rape victims suffer full blown post traumatic experiences such as guilt, insomnia, depression, low self-esteem, among others.

Nana Sule, Social Media Manager, Daily Trust, described sexual abuse as a shadow pandemic that can manifest in parents, destroy child self-esteem and causes victim to abuse drug and alcohol to forget the past.

She said rape is a crime against the state and advised that victims, and their relations should not settle out of court but should allow justice take its course so as to serve as deterrent to others.

Earlier, the Dean Student Affairs, Dr. Shamsudeen Umar who was represented by the Deputy Dean, Female, Dr. Maryam Liman, in his opening remarks, commended the organizers of the event which, he said, was timely.

He said victims of sexual abuse were prone to depression and suicidal thoughts. He, therefore, urged victims to speak out, and not keep quiet for fear of stigmatization.

The President, Association of Female Congregation Members (AFECOMS), Professor Fatima Gaji Dantata, in her remarks said the event was meant to create awareness on an issue that has become a global pandemic.

She said everyone is a stakeholder and there is need for all hands to be on deck to curb the menace.

carrying out his new assignment. They also gave their good wishes to the outgoing Director also mentioning his dedication towards taking the unit.

Fear of Allah is Key to Success

By Abubakar Yusuf

Fear of Allah has been described as the major key to success not only in this life but also in the hereafter.

This was disclosed at the Ramadan Lecture titled “Bin Allah maganin wayyo Allah: mafitar al'umma daga halin da ake ciki” organized by The Muslim Forum, Bayero University, Kano held at Old Campus Jumu'at Mosque on Sunday 2nd May, 2021.

During their presentation Dr. Abdulqadir Isma'il and Mal. Mu'azzam Sulaiman Khalid said the purpose of creating human being is to follow Allah's rules and regulations, failure to do which will definitely find himself to blame. They said fearing Allah is the only solution to our socio-economic, political problem facing now the country.

The two speakers maintained that if society would follow Allah's rules in all their activities, their condition of living will improve and they will get reward from Allah (SWT) in the hereafter.

In his speech, the Chairman of the occasion, Sheikh Ibrahim Khalil, described the lecture as timely, considering the current socio-economic and insecurity we are in. The speakers, according to him, were well selected considering their vast experience and knowledge.

Sheikh Ibrahim Khalil who is also the Chairman Kano State Council of Ulama said the lecture would help in giving the Muslim Umma direction on how best to solve their problems.

Dr. Nu'uman Habib who is the Chairman of the Forum said the lecture is a yearly activity that holds in every Ramadan. He thanked all the members of the Forum who contributed in one way or the other to ensure the success of this year's lecture.
